

Abstract

An outdoor microturbine engine assembly includes a microturbine engine supported by a base and enclosed by an enclosure. The base defines a reservoir for the collection of rain water and any oil that may leak from the engine into the reservoir. The oil will naturally float on the water in the reservoir. A drain pipe communicates with the bottom of the reservoir and drains water from the bottom of reservoir while maintaining the oil in the reservoir.

T:\clienta\031383\9085\A0684683.1